Candlelight ceremony marks one-year anniversary of Phoebe Prince's death

SOUTH HADLEY - With 10 minutes before the clock struck 7 p.m., the number of residents gathered at the town common was sparse.

News vans, as they had been all year long, were on scene, lining the road dividing the common from the Village Commons shops and flooding the gazebo area with bright light.

For the majority of 2010, South

Hadley found itself in that spotlight, as it became nationally known as the town of bullies after 15-year-old South Hadley High School freshman Phoebe Prince took her own life in the wake of what officials deemed relentless bullying from her peers. Last Friday, Jan. 14, marked the tragic one-year anniversary.

Tanya Kopec, member of Count Me In, organized a remembrance event for that evening called "Let Your Light Shine," welcoming all to attend.

As the minutes ticked closer to 7 p.m., a steady stream of residents - from seniors to children - began to fill the common. Temperatures were nearly sub-zero but that didn't deter those from coming out.

Huddled together, the crowd of approximately 100 residents dolled out candles and passed flames of light from one wick to another, an act symbolic of how blame for the tragedy has been passed around, as

Has South Hadley changed since the death of Phoebe Prince?

By KRISTIN WILL
Staff Writer, kwill@turley.com

SOUTH HADLEY - A small, sleepy town tucked away in the eaves of the Pioneer Valley, South Hadley was thrust into a harsh national spotlight and scrutinized with critical eyes last January as it navigated a path few to none had traveled down in terms of high school bullying and serious criminal charges against culprits.

Cast as a bully-breeding haven internationally and regionally, South Hadley worked toward reversing that label through stepping up its volunteerism and community outreach. But has the town really changed? And was it so bad as it initially was made out to be?

Residents seem to agree that if anything, South Hadley residents are more aware of one another following the death of 15-year-old Phoebe Prince.

South Hadley High School Sophomore and friend of Prince, Ashley Willis, said, "People are a lot more open to trying new things" and stigmas of "uncool" clubs, activities and groups have lifted.

"A lot of people at the high school learned a lot and have been making a real difference to be better," said Willis, adding students have taken on "more responsibility."

Food Pantry flooded with donations

TURLEY PUBLICATIONS STAFF PHOTOS BY KRISTIN WILL

Food donations to the Neighbors Helping Neighbors Food Pantry consumed the back room of the United Methodist Church in South Hadley Falls Monday afternoon as the donations continued to pour in from Count Me In's community-wide collection.

Community response enormous

By KRISTIN WILL
Staff Writer, kwill@turley.com

SOUTH HADLEY - Count Me In asked for food donations to the Neighbors Helping Neighbors Food Pantry and South Hadley contributed the best it could. The response was overwhelming.

Earlier this week, students and members of Count Me In collected the 2,000 grocery bags they had distributed among residences in the hope residents would fill them with food. The donations were then brought straight to the Neighbors Helping Neighbors Food Pantry located in the United Methodist Church at 30 Carew St.

Rev. Louise Dumas expected 50 percent of those 2,000 bags to be returned with food. In reality, residents went above and beyond and donated more than the one bag.

Donations consumed literally half of the church's back room, where countless students and volunteers were sorting the goods onto tables. In the parking lot, a line had been formed snaking through to that back room. Donations were passed from person to person standing in that line until the bags reached their destination.

"The response from the community has been remarkable," said Dumas. "This is truly neighbors helping neighbors. This has truly, truly been a community effort."

Karen Motyka agreed. "It gives you goosebumps."

Dumas said the pantry had actually received its first patron that day. Although the pantry wasn't open for operation at that time, Dumas and her team were not about to let that person go hungry. They supplied them with food and welcomed them back the following weekend.

The youngest volunteer that day was just six years old. And the oldest? 92 years old.

As donations continued to be passed down the line, other volunteers checked expiration dates, collected the empty donation bags and transported the sorted items to the pantry shelves. The energy from the organized chaos was palpable.

Everyone was focused on their tasks at hand, completing them with smiles on their faces.

"It's one thing to write a check," said Dumas. "It's another to give."

For many, it was all about giving back to the community. "It's just great to help one another," said volunteer Cheryl Pennie-Williams. Her daughter, Kaila, 8, agreed. "It's nice to know the whole community pitches in."

And despite the day being a holiday for students, many were out in droves collecting, sorting and transporting the goods.

"I had the day off," said 15-year-old Jay Patruno. "Why not do something good?"

The lessons learned that day are invaluable.

"I think it's amazing," said 14-year-old Jack Mulvaney. "Just walking in and seeing bags piled upon bags - it's just so touching to see people in town are so willing to help."

The Neighbors Helping Neighbors Food Pantry will open its doors this

Resident soldier Jay Ruben honored during Celtics' 'Seats for Soldiers Night'

SOUTH HADLEY – The Boston Celtics hosted members of the United States Armed Services and their families for the home game last Friday, Jan. 14 against the Charlotte Bobcats as part of the fourth annual Seats for Soldiers program, presented by OmniPresence and the Army National Guard of Massachusetts, Maine, and New Hampshire.

Seats for Soldiers gives Celtics fans the opportunity to donate their tickets to the game and allow members of each branch of the armed services to attend in their seat.

Jay Ruben, of South Hadley, was welcomed home from active duty overseas during halftime, along with 17 other soldiers who have recently returned home from active duty.

During halftime at the game, the soldiers were introduced one at a time, giving their name, hometown, rank and number of deployments as they lined up with their respective National Guard Unit at center court for a special "Welcome Home Ceremony."

During the month of January, The Boston Celtics and the Army National Guard will honor three members of the military at the six home games throughout the month. The honorees will receive two tickets to the game and a pre-game photo on the parquet floor with their guest, as well as recognition on the jumbotron during the game.

Also, the honored military members will be featured in a special National Guard Soldier Spotlight page on Celtics.com.

"As an organization, we are proud to honor the brave men and women of the US Armed forces through our Seats for Soldiers program," Boston Celtics Team President Rich Gotham said. "Our fans have shown amazing generosity over the last few years in donating their tickets to these courageous individuals who defend our country."

Fans interested in donating tickets can call 617-854-8013 or email seatsforsoldiers@celtics.com. Additionally, Boston Celtics season ticket holders will be able to donate their tickets by logging onto their account at www.celtics.com. All donated tickets are given to the USO New England for distribution within the military branches. Last season Celtics fans donated over 500 tickets to the Seats for Soldiers program.

The Seats for Soldiers donations are product of a unique collaborative effort among the USO New England, Army National Guard, Boston Celtics, Celtics season ticket holders and fans that purchased tickets for the January 14th home game. All of the seats donated are voluntarily contributed to allow members of the armed services and their families to attend the game in their place. "The Boston Celtics Fourth Annual Seats for Soldiers Night gives the USO New England the opportunity to continue our mission of providing premiere entertainment to our service members, veterans and their families," USO New England Executive Director Steven E. Wujciak said. "The Celtics organization and season ticket holders have shown such generous support of our service-members, it's a fitting tribute."

Holyoke resident installed as District Masonic Officer

HOLYOKE – Robert James O'Neill of Holyoke was installed a District Deputy Grand Master (or District Deputy) for the Grand Lodge of Masons in Massachusetts and will preside over seven lodges in the Twenty-seventh Masonic District for the year. The 232 lodges and 36,000 Freemasons in the Commonwealth are divided into 32 Districts, each led by a District Deputy.

The Grand Lodge of Masons in Massachusetts is the oldest Grand Lodge in the Western Hemisphere and the third oldest in the world. It was chartered in 1733, following the establishment of the Grand Lodge of England in 1717, and Ireland in 1725. In 2008, the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts marked its 275th Anniversary. A Grand Lodge is the governing body that ensures the activities of the lodges and members comply with its Constitutions and Regulations; it also maintains the uniformity of the centuries-old initiation ceremony candidates experience when they become members.

As a District Deputy Grand Master, O'Neill serves as the Grand Master's personal representative to the lodges in the District. Richard J. Stewart of Shrewsbury, MA was installed for the first of his three one-year terms as the 87th Grand Maser of Masons in Massachusetts and the head of the fraternity. The Grand Master handpicked O'Neill for the position.

The Twenty-seventh Masonic District is comprised of the following lodges: Jerusalem Lodge (established in 1797), Hatfield; Pacific Lodge (1801), Amherst; Chicopee Lodge (1848), and Mount Holyoke Lodge (1869), South Hadley Fall; Mount Tom Lodge (1850), Holyoke; Vernon Lodge (1869), Belchertown; and, Hampshire Lodge (1871), Haydenville.

Raised in Holyoke, he graduated from Holyoke High School and attended Holyoke Community College and Greenfield Community College. He is an Application Engineer with Worthington & Atlas Copco, Holyoke.

O'Neill is a member of Blessed Sacrament Parish, Holyoke. He also belongs to the Chicopee Elks and the Yankee Division Veteran's Association.

In 1981, he began his Masonic career by joining Mount Tom Lodge. He served as the Worshipful Master, or presiding officer, in 2003 and 2010. Masons use the original definition of "worshipful, meaning "honorable"; English mayors and judges are still addressed as "Worshipful." As District Deputy Grand Master, O'Neill will be called "Right Worshipful." He affiliated with Esoteric-Sherwood Lodge, Feeding Hills, in 2002.

O'Neill belongs to several Masonic organizations. He is a member of Melha Shriners, Springfield, and has been particularly active in the Military Band Unit, serving as President for 5 years. He has been the Executive Secretary of the Shrine Band Association of North America since 1999, and was their President in 2009.

He is a 32° Mason in the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite – Valley of Springfield. He also belongs to all three York Rite bodies: Morning Star Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, Feeding Hills; Springfield Royal and Select Master Masons, Feeding Hills; and Springfield Commandery #6, Knights Templar, Holyoke.

Freemasons belong to the world's oldest and largest fraternity, which brings together men of every country, religion, race, education, income, and opinion and helps develop the bonds of friendship between them. Through a large variety of North American Masonic philanthropies, approximately $3,000,000 is given to charity every day, 70% of which benefits the public. During its initiation ceremony, which uses symbolism and allegory, its members are encouraged to value principles and ethics and live their lives accordingly. By providing meaningful opportunities for fellowship, charity, leadership, and education, Freemasonry aims to "make good men better," and hopes its members will make their families, workplaces, and communities stronger. The Grand Lodge of Massachusetts represents 36,000 members and more than 230 lodges throughout the Commonwealth. Founded in 1733 it is the oldest Grand Lodge in the Western Hemisphere and the third oldest in the world. For additional information, please call 800.882.1020, or visit MassFreemasonry.org.

Dessert with the Docs

Holyoke Medical Center presents program on hernia repair

HOLYOKE - Holyoke Medical Center will present a free community education program on hernia repair on Tuesday, Jan. 25 at 6 p.m. in the facility's Auxiliary Conference Center.

The program is presented as part of HMC's ongoing "Dessert with the Docs" series.

Featured speaker will be Dr. Francis Martinez, of HMC Specialty Surgeons.

An abdominal wall hernia occurs when soft tissue, usually part of the intestine, protrudes through a weak point or tear in your abdominal wall. The resulting bulge can be painful, especially when you cough, bend over, or lift a heavy object.

Not necessarily dangerous by itself, an abdominal wall hernia doesn't get better or go away on its own. But if left untreated, it can become life threatening if it becomes strangulated or causes a bowel obstruction.

Join Dr. Francis Martinez as he explains inguinal, abdominal and incisional hernias and provides an update on how a hernia is diagnosed and what current options are available for surgical repair.

Refreshments will be served. Preregistration is required and seating is limited.

For more information or to pre-register, please call (413) 534-2789.

townreminder@turley.com • 413-536-5333

Editorial

It starts with you

"Be the change you wish to see in the world." That quote, spoken by Mahatma Gandhi, can be applied locally in reference to the public outcry over how the South Hadley school administration handled the Phoebe Prince bullying incident over the past year.

Enraged parents and residents called for the ousting of South Hadley High School Principal Dan Smith and Superintendent Gus Sayer last year. Later, they were apoplectic after Sayer's contract was renewed and a raise approved of during an executive session of the school committee. Adding fuel to the fire were the arguments between resident Luke Gelinis and then-School Committee Chairperson Edward J. Boisselle.

But as the hype surrounding the incidents diminished, the number of residents appearing at meetings calling for a change – either in those on the committee or of the school administration – lessened. They still called for change, just from their homes or behind their computers.

Now is the chance for residents to be the change they so badly wish to see. Two South Hadley School Committee positions are up for reelection – Chairperson, currently held by JoAnn Jordan, and Vice Chairperson, currently held by Kathryn Mazur. Any resident is eligible to run for those positions if he or she is a registered voter.

Nomination papers are now available at Town Clerk Carlene C. Hamlin's office in town hall. Two residents have already pulled papers to run for those open three-year positions.

Interested residents will need to collect 50 signatures of other registered voters and return the nomination papers by Feb. 14. The annual town election will be held during the first week in April during which residents will vote for whom they think will best serve South Hadley's students.

If you're tired of missteps, sketchy contract renewals and have positive solutions to combat bullying in the schools, run for a school committee position. Be the change you wish to see in South Hadley.

Letters To The Editor

Thankful for community support

To the Editor,

Providence Ministries would like to thank everyone who donated new clothing and toys to our "Toys for Kids" give-a-way this past Christmas. Our organization was able to assist 154 families consisting of 389 children. Each child up to age 14 received at least a hat, mittens and scarf, one outfit and two toys.

We would never have been able to achieve this goal without help from a very generous community. Some of our donors this year included: The Greater Springfield

Board of Realtors, MJ Kisiel and friends, Kim Koher and friends, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Blessed Sacrament Parish & students, Knights of Columbus Council # 4044, The Newman Center at UMass Amherst, A.R.S, Terry Houle of Fun Time Lanes and many, many more. We are truly grateful for everyone's support and generosity.

PMN's mission is to feed, clothe and house the needy of the greater Holyoke area. The on-going support from our community allows us to offer programs such as "Toys for Kids" that not only meets immediate needs of warm clothing, but also gives hope to those with so little by providing a little something for under the Christmas tree.

Without the unwavering support of the community Providence Ministries would be unable to do the work it has done in the community for the past 30 years. Our heartfelt thanks goes out to all.

With gratitude,
Karen M. Blanchard
Executive Director

Holyoke Merry-Go-Round thanks everyone

To the Editor,

The Holyoke Merry-Go-Round would like to thank all its riders who, during the month of December, brought non-perishable food, hats or mittens that are being donated to help make the winter a little brighter. All of the non-perishable food was donated to Kate's Kitchen and the hats and mittens were donated to the Salvation Army. The response this year was amazing!

We would also like to thank all of the people who helped make our 14th annual "First Night Jr" a huge success! We had crowds of almost 900 people enjoying all the fun activities that were offered at the merry-go-round, Children's Museum and Heritage State Park Visitor Center.

Our thanks go out to Mayor Elaine Pluta, all of our performers, our many wonderful volunteers, the culinary students at Dean Tech, members of the Holyoke Fire Department, Joan Cavanaugh and the Holyoke High School Marching Band, Charlie Lopsteich at Heritage State Park and of course all of the families who took time out of their busy schedules to share this family event with us!

If you have a comment or a suggestion on how we can improve "First Night Jr," please feel free to drop us an e-mail at friends@holyokemerrygoround.org. We would love to hear from you and as we start planning our 15th event, please tell us your thoughts or share with us an idea on what performers you would like to see.

Commentary

well as of how a change in the community has begun on an individual level.

Illuminated by the white holiday lights still adorning the gazebo on the common, three female clergy members reflected on the loss of a young life and shared messages of hope. Kopec's son, Justin, performed two songs. The second, Katy Perry's "Firework," was deconstructed by the clergy, who related it to the loss of Prince and anyone else in the community who may feel like she had.

For many, support was a main reason for attending the ceremony, as it was for resident Martha MacDonald. "We hope there is closure," she said.

Others said while it may still be too soon to experience total closure, the town is on the right track.

"I just want to see the town heal," said resident Bill Schenker. "This should bring healing."

Ashley Willis, a sophomore at the high school, agreed. Willis had attended a candlelight vigil held in memory of Prince the evening following her death in 2010. There, students sang songs, remembered Prince and vocalized their thoughts and feelings. "Everyone got a lot out of it," said Willis, adding that was why she and her friends took part in Friday's Let Your Light Shine.

Students were the largest group of residents to attend the ceremony. Earlier, they wore white t-shirts throughout the school day in remembrance of Prince. At the candlelight ceremony, the students consoled one another and offered shoulders of support. One student remarked that while various cliques and groups appeared that frigid evening, the high school hierarchies didn't matter, that they had all come together as one.

Many, such as Kyle Whelihan, attended the ceremony for "the sense of community," he said. "And for the love and compassion everyone feels."

The ceremony even brought out non-South Hadley residents, such as James Warren, of Ludlow. The young man, inspired to become an anti-bullying advocate following the death of Prince and Carl Walker Hoover, wielded a poster with the message "End bullying. End the hate. Love is louder."

Following each clergy member's soliloquy were ringing of bells and finally a somber moment of silence to conclude the ceremony. Claspng their candles with gloved hands, those in attendance raised their arms high, saluting Prince who is finally resting in peace. As the group gradually dispersed, a vehicle drove past the town common, emitting the familiar beats of Perry's "Firework," a song which will take on an entirely new meaning for those who attended Let Your Light Shine.

Two 19th century composers take the spotlight

Maestro Kevin Rhodes will lead the Springfield Symphony Orchestra in a classical program highlighting the music of Brahms and Beethoven at 8 p.m. in Symphony Hall Jan. 29. For tickets go to springfieldsymphony.org.

Springfield Symphony Orchestra to host violinist Rachel Barton Pine Jan. 29

BY CHARLES F. BENNETT
Turley Publications Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD – Springfield Symphony Orchestra's Maestro Kevin Rhodes will highlight two of the greatest 19th century composers for a winter's evening of warm and stirring music on Saturday, Jan. 29 at 8 p.m. in Symphony Hall.

Rhodes and the orchestra will start the classical music year with Beethoven's "Egmont Overture" and "Symphony No. 3 - Eroica" and Brahms' "Concerto for Violin & Orchestra."

"This year it will be my pleasure to welcome the return of one of my favorite artists, violinist Rachel Barton Pine, who gave a great performance with the orchestra several years back," said Rhodes.

Brahms

Pine will be the guest solo artist in the Brahms concerto. "Rachel and I have had the pleasure of performing the Brahms piece elsewhere and I can tell you the experience was spellbinding for me. I found myself occasionally wishing I could just stop conducting and listen," commented Rhodes.

Violinist Pine is known as a child prodigy making her debut at the age of 7. She has played with numerous famous conductors - Zubin Mehta, Erich Leinsdorf and Charles Dutoit, and with singer Placido Domingo. Critics hail her as the most charismatic, virtuosic and compelling American violinist of her generation.

She has soloed in concert halls from Chicago to Montreal to Budapest and sees herself as an artistic ambassador, introducing the pleasures of classical music to legions of new listeners. Pine is entrusted with the prestigious "ex-Soldat" violin made in 1742 by Guarneri del Gesu.

Rhodes said the Brahms composition will bring a sunny mood to the hall no matter what the late January weather is. "It has a dreamy opening and gradually transcends to joyous energy," he said.

Beethoven's 'Heroic'

Rhodes said Beethoven needs no introduction except to say that his music never gets old, only better. "Beethoven is more loved with each successive hearing or playing. The towering achievement of the "Eroica Symphony," is hardly possible to put into words," he said. "This full and abundant symphony at first celebrated Napoleon but after second thoughts Beethoven he decided the Emperor wasn't quite the humanitarian he had believed, so he scratched out Napoleon's name and replaced it with "Heroic" for "symphony for a hero,"

Rhodes explained. "Its theme makes you want to enjoy life to the fullest," he said.

Idealism and Passion

The other equally heroic Beethoven composition, "Egmont Overture" is often called the most compact symphony ever written. Its theme, based on an idea by the German poet von Goethe, conveys idealism and passion for political and individual freedom.

Prior to the concert at 7 p.m. in the hall, the Springfield Symphony Youth Orchestra will give a concert highlighting the best and the brightest young musicians in the region.

"They gave a sterling performance at a Season Finale concert two years ago, so we decided to bring them back for an encore, to showcase their talent," said Rhodes.

Audiences can preview the concert by logging on to www.SpringfieldSymphony.org and clicking on "Behind the Music" to hear Maestro Rhodes talk about the performance.

For tickets call the Box Office at 413-733-2291.

MONDAY, JAN. 10

1:49 a.m. - Officers received a call from a resident of Lower River Road reporting an unwanted guest. Upon police arrival, the homeowner stated he had slept on the living room couch and when he awoke, a tall male was standing next to his front door. The caller, who left his front door unlocked, said he thought it might be his friend and fell back asleep. Then he woke again after recalling he had dropped off his friend earlier that evening. At that time, the male was still standing there. The homeowner told him to leave, but he remained standing. The homeowner went to another room to call the police and when he returned the individual was gone. Police found no signs of forced entry or any evidence of someone in the residence. The incident is under investigation.

2:52 p.m. - An accident occurred at the intersection near the entrance to the Willimansett Street Big Y. A 62-year-old South Hadley man was traveling west to Willimansett Street when an 87-year-old South Hadley woman failed to stop at a stop sign and T-boned the man's vehicle. He was transported to Holyoke Medical Center for his injuries.

TUESDAY, JAN. 11

5:01 p.m. - An accident occurred at the intersection of Granby Road and Willimansett Street. A car, driven by a 55-year-old Holyoke woman, was traveling south on Route 33 when it stopped at a light to turn left onto Route 202. Officer Ron Condino was observing traffic at that time near the intersection. He witnessed a vehicle operated by a 61-year-old Holyoke man roll into the rear end of the woman. Damage was minor. There were no injuries. The man stated he had been distracted by his cell phone.

8:52 p.m. - Police responded to Berwyn Street for the report of a disturbance. On scene, Officer Jess Camp arrested Kevin McKenna, 44, of 29 Berwyn St., South Hadley, and charged him with assault and battery and assault with a dangerous weapon - to wit a pink bubba keg cup. McKenna was found to also have three outstanding arrest warrants out of Eastern Hampshire, Holyoke and Northampton district courts. He was transported to Hampshire County House of Corrections.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 12

1:01 a.m. - Police received a call from a Bridge Street resident who stated he witnessed two individuals looking into cars. The caller checked his own vehicle and found his MP3 player to be missing. Approximately six minutes later, police received a call from an individual on Carew Street who described the same two individuals brushing snow off of cars and looking inside. Officers Matthew Richard and Eric Ortiz located two individuals on School Street matching the description given by the callers. While questioning them, one individual stated they had come from the convenience store on Bardwell Street. However, police were able to easily determine that to be false, evidenced by the direction of the individuals' footprints in the snow. After a short investigation, police found several items on both persons, and a victim of the larceny was able to immediately identify some of the items as being his. Jeremy V. Capdeville, 19, of School St., South Hadley, and Victor M. Nieves, 19, of 34 School St., South Hadley, were both placed under arrest and both were charged with two counts of breaking and entering in the nighttime for a felony, three counts of larceny over $250 and receiving stolen property over $250. They had iPods, GOS units, MP3 players and CDs on their persons later identified as stolen property. They were transported to Hampshire County House of Corrections. Police are investigating the two individuals in connection with other break-ins that have occurred recently in that neighborhood.

Police remind residents to never leave valuables in an unlocked or unattended car.

9:43 a.m. - Police arrested Matthew Paradis, 29, of 18 Smith St., South Hadley, after receiving a call from Northampton Police that he violated his abuse prevention order.

10:04 p.m. - Officer Jess Camp observed an individual operating a motor vehicle whom Camp knew to have a suspended license. Subsequently, Camp stopped David N. Bovin, 18, of 100 East St., South Hadley and arrested him. He was charged with operating with a suspended license. His vehicle was towed from the scene. Bovin was later released on bail.

FRIDAY, JAN. 14

7:17 a.m. - An accident occurred at the intersection of Newton and Lincoln streets when a 50-year-old South Hadley man was attempting to turn onto Lincoln Street, slowing down to stop for a bus passing by. A 19-year-old Chicopee woman could not stop in time and struck the rear end of the man's vehicle. Both had extensive damage and needed to be towed from the scene. There were no injuries.

SATURDAY, JAN. 15

5:38 p.m. - Police responded to Bardwell Street for the report of a disturbance. On scene, Officer Ron Condino arrested Richard J. Molte, 69, of 89 Bardwell St., South Hadley. He was charged with assault and battery. He was later released on bail.

9 p.m. - A 32-year-old Amherst man was traveling northbound on Memorial Drive when witnesses say he failed to stop at a stop light, striking another vehicle which was making a left turn from Abbey Street onto Memorial Drive, driven by a 63-year-old Monson man. Neither were injured. The Amherst man was cited for failure to stop.

SUNDAY, JAN. 16

12:39 a.m. - Police responded to the intersection of routes 202 and 33 for a hit-and-run accident. A vehicle traveling southbound on Route 33 went through the intersection, made a right turn onto Route 202 and struck the traffic signal, knocking it over and leaving the scene. Debris left at the scene indicate the car is possibly blue or black in color. Buick parts were also found at the scene. It took several hours for the state to get the traffic lights to work again. Police ask if anyone saw the accident occur to please contact their detective bureau.

3:10 p.m. - Detective Mark Dominick was monitoring traffic on Bridge and Main streets when he saw a vehicle drive past him with an expired inspection sticker. He stopped the vehicle and identified the operator as a 41-year-old Chicopee man. He learned the vehicle's registration had been revoked due to lack of insurance. Subsequently, the Chicopee man will be summoned into court to answer charges of operating an uninsured motor vehicle, operating a motor vehicle with no inspection sticker and a revoked registration.

9:16 p.m. - Officer Jeff Goulet was monitoring traffic on Main Street when he performed a random compliance check of a vehicle. He learned the registration had been revoked. Goulet stopped the vehicle on Pleasant Street and identified the operator as a 32-year-old South Hadley man. He will be summoned into court to answer charges of having no inspection sticker, operating an uninsured motor vehicle and a revoked registration.

SOUTH HADLEY – If the South Hadley boys basketball team expects to go dancing in Division 2 this season, they better find a way to score.

The Tigers offense disappeared last Thursday night. South Hadley only had five first half field goals and recorded its second lowest output of the season, falling 51-39 to Chicopee Comp.

The Tigers dropped to 2-6 overall heading into another big Division 2 game versus Holyoke Catholic on Monday. South Hadley is currently 2-0 against teams in Division 2 or 3 and a win against the Gaels would inch the program closer to a playoff berth.

The Tigers also began league play this week with a game against Central Division foe Agawam.

Joe Crespo scored a team-high 13 points and Sam Pouliot added 12 in the loss to the Colts.

South Hadley raced out to a 9-3 lead Crespo and Zach Bullough made shots in the first quarter. But the Colts used a 9-0 run to end the quarter behind the inside play of Josh Smiley to take a 12-9 lead into the second period.

That run extended to 17-0 as the Colts took advantage of many missed Tiger shots right around the rim. Still, only trailing 20-9 midway through the quarter, the Tigers defense stepped up and made stops. South Hadley held Chicopee Comp to one field goal in the final 6:05 of the second quarter to remain in the game, despite having offensive troubles.

The Colts led 22-18 at the half and the Tigers made only 7-of-12 free throw attempts in the first 16 minutes.

Crespo began the third quarter with a lay up to trim the lead to 22-20 and he hit an outside shot to cut the Comp lead to 24-22 with 6:41 left in the third. With the game theirs to take, the Tigers scored only four points the rest of the quarter.

Meanwhile, the Colts did just enough to wedge some distance as Xavier White made two nice drives to the rim. Smiley and White closed the quarter with baskets and the Comp lead was 34-26 in a low scoring game heading into the fourth.

The likeable Jon Crespo drove into the lane and finished and after a Comp turnover, the electric guard did it again, reducing the lead to 34-30. Pouliot also scored inside and the Tigers were in the game, trailing 36-32 with 6:04 to play.

But the offense went stale again as the Colts regained the edge and led 42-33 before holding down South Hadley. The Tigers didn't score a bucket for over five minutes in a late fourth quarter stretch.

The defense played well, something the Tigers will take into some important upcoming games.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

The South Hadley girls basketball team won a game in thrilling fashion last week. The Lady Tigers used a last second basket by Tess Gauthier to stun host Putnam 46-45 in Springfield.

Gauthier received a pass from Kara Callahan after a Putnam missed free throw and fed Gauthier down the court. Gauthier made the layup with one second left to give the Tigers an emotional road victory.

South Hadley improved to 5-3 after outscoring Putnam 22-11 in the final quarter. Gauthier had four points, while Callahan and Lauren Barthelette each contributed with 11 points.

The Tigers traveled to McCann Tech earlier this week before welcoming a top Division 2 team in Hampshire on Friday.

Holyoke remains unbeaten after second win over Belchertown

Dilisio inching closer to 100 career points

BY DAVID GRANT

Turley Publications Sports Correspondent

HOLYOKE – South Hadley senior Luke Dilisio assisted on three of Holyoke's four goals last Saturday night.

The offensive stalwart turned defenseman this winter now has 99 career points heading into Saturday's game at Turners Falls. The Knights game versus Agawam on Tuesday was postponed due to winter weather.

Dilisio, a four-year player, helped Holyoke remain unbeaten after the 4-2 win over Belchertown at Fitzpatrick Arena. Holyoke, the two-time defending Western Mass. Division 3A champion, is off to an 8-0 start this season.

Jeff Newsome is the last Knight to accomplish the feat of 100 points seven years ago, though last year the exciting Derek Pinciak finished the season with 99 points. Pinciak missed 14 games with a broken wrist.

"We probably will make an announcement at the next home game," said Knights head coach John Houle. "It's a huge achievement."

Dilisio would already have 100 points

if he didn't give himself up to help pull together a young Knights defense.

"We lost a lot on defense last year and he mentioned it to me that he would move back," Houle said. "He's still an offensive threat. Luke has exceptional hands and speed. It's nice when you have an offense threat on ice. He is one of the smartest guys on the ice. It's real difficult to get 100 points because you only play a 20-game schedule. There are some quality goalies in the league."

Houle said he thinks the reason why a player gets one point for an assist and one point for a goal is because the guys who assist on a goal do all the work. Houle said he believes a player should get two points for doing all that work.

Holyoke swept the Orioles this season. In Saturday's win, Spencer Nawrocki scored two goals and added one assist. Brian Rokowski had a goal and one assist and Kevin Stefanik also scored. Doug Sattler earned one assist and freshman goalie Devin Hoagland remained perfect with a 26-save performance.

Doug Lavelle and Matt Henry scored for Belchertown, which slipped to 4-3-1. Travis Greeley made 35 stops for the Orioles.

Once again Holyoke had to recover after falling behind 1-0 heading into the second period. Houle said he was very unhappy with his team's performance.

"We are in a midseason lull right now," Houle said. "You go through this. We haven't been playing great hockey. I wasn't real impressed with them against Belchertown. We were outplayed in the first and in the second and third we put the puck. We shook up the lines a little bit and shortened the bench. I ended up running a real short game. Devin played really well in net. It's good when you don't play well and you win."

Houle is trying to let his team know that an undefeated season means nothing.

"You don't get anything for being undefeated," he said. "Our goal is to get in the tournament, get a good seed and try to win some games in the tournament."

Eight-year-old Olivia Roy passes a donation bag full of goods to Tim O'Donnell. Both volunteered their time to help out their community.

Saturday, Jan. 22 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. It will also be open on Wednesdays from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The pantry was asked by the Food Bank of Western Mass to have its hours of operation include at least one weekend or one evening, in order to provide for the "working poor." The pantry included both hours and another all together.

Pantry-goers will need to register one time only. A form of personal identification such as Mass Health or other insurance card, EBT card, local supermarket card, bank/debit card, library card or public transit card as well as proof of South Hadley residency such as a utility bill, piece of mail, bank statement or rental agreement will need to be shown. A food pantry card will be then given to the patron, which lists their family size. When the patron returns in the future, all he or she will need to do is show their food pantry card to be given food supplies.

The "client-choice" system will be used, meaning patrons will not be given a bag of food pre-packaged by pantry employees. Rather, patrons will be able to select what items in the pantry they would like to include in their supply, right down to the particular brand of canned good, as if they were shopping in a grocery store.

There will still be a limit as to how much of each particular food group items a patron can take, based on their family size displayed on their food pantry card.

Patrons will be given a three-day supply of food. But unlike other food pantries which limit the time a patron can return to the pantry to at least two months, the South Hadley Food Pantry will allow patrons to return every two weeks for that three-day supply of food.

Although the pantry has received sizable donations from the community, it's going to need continual donations in order to feed the hungry.

To donate to the South Hadley Food Pantry, make checks payable to Neighbors Helping Neighbors and send them to The United Methodist Church, 30 Carew St., South Hadley, MA, 01075. Any amount will be beneficial. Food donations can be made as well, and can be arranged through the church by calling (413) 532-0500. Residents can also volunteer their time.

Just what can residents donate to the pantry in terms of food?

Popular non-perishable (and most often run out of) items include:

- Boxed cereal, dry oatmeal, Cream of Wheat
- Breakfast or granola bars and PopTarts
- Baby food
- Macaroni and cheese
- Pasta and spaghetti sauce
- Soup and other meals in cans with flip tops (Residents may not own can openers)
- Canned or boxed vegetable stock, chicken or beef broths
- Crackers such as Saltines
- Vegetable or olive oil
- Canned fruit and vegetables
- Dried potato flakes
- Rice and canned or dry beans and lentils
- Peanut butter and jelly or jam
- Canned tuna and other fish
- Powdered or evaporated milk
- Cake mix and other baking supplies such as flour, sugar, baking powder and soda
- Spices and condiments
